The Building Blocks of Regulation

Why does everyone keep talking about 'Emotional Regulation'? What does this term mean? This workshop explores the basics of Emotional Regulation and provides families and professionals with some ideas to try to help their child stay calm and happy throughout their day.

This evening workshop will be at the Maier Centre South location.

Date:	September 18, 2018/ October 30, 2018
Time:	6:00pm – 8:00pm

My Child Isn't Talking Yet, What Should I Do?

Children learn to communicate through a variety of ways, and often parents are able to learn the subtle nuances of their child's communication. This communication however, can be very limited and is not always functional. This workshop explores communication options and methods to stimulate early language development in young children. Along with a discussion on enhancing nonverbal communication strategies (e.g. gestures), visual communication systems (e.g. PECS, pictures, objects, etc) will be explored. This introductory workshop is intended for parents of children who are new to the world of nonverbal communication methods.

This evening workshop will be at the Maier Centre South location.

	Date:	September 25, 2018
	Time:	6:00pm – 8:00pm

Building Engagement for Communication

Parents sometimes feel like their child is 'in their own world' or is just not interested in many toys or activities. In some cases, children may seem disinterested in people, instead choosing to play by themselves, and may even become upset if someone touches the toys they are playing with. This workshop aims to provide parents and professionals with information and strategies as a starting point to help a child with ASD learn that people can be fun too!

This evening workshop will be at the Maier Centre South location.

Date:

October 2, 2018

Time:

6:00pm – 8:00pm

Triple P

Stepping Stones Triple P (Positive Parenting Program) is similar to other Triple P programs, but includes adaptations for children who have a disability. This parent course helps parents build their skill sets to manage challenging behaviours in a way that meets the developmental level of the child. Parents will learn and practice implementing strategies that will work for their family, and create a 'toolbox' of strategies to help them tackle the tough times at home.

This parent education group will be at the Maier Centre location (west Edmonton).

October 4 – November 29, 2018
Thursdays, 6:00pm – 8:00pm

6 In-Class Sessions
3 Phone Call Check-Ins

More Than Words

This parent course is designed for parents of children with ASD who are 6 years old or younger. Strategies explored are geared for children in a few stages of development, from those who are non-verbal to those who are beginning to speak in short conversations. In this course, parents learn how to help their child interact with adults and other children, and how to expand their child's communication skills.

This parent group will be at the Maier Centre South location.

October 10 – December 19, 2018
Wednesdays, 9:00am – 11:30am

8 In-Class Sessions
3 Video Feedback Sessions

Picky Eating and Nutrition

Having a child who is very picky about the items they eat can be challenging and frustrating for any parent. This workshop discusses the theory behind limited food repertoires for children of all ages, and explores strategies to implement food exploration at home with the ultimate goal of expanding a child's food repertoire.

This evening workshop will be at the Maier Centre South location.

Date: October 16, 2018

Time: 6:00pm – 8:00pm

Using Visual Supports for Communication

Visual supports for communication are used by everyone – think of all the calendars and apps that we (as adults) use to help us manage all of the activities we do each day. Children with autism also need this type of support, both to understand their routines and to express what they cannot yet express in verbal language. This workshop will introduce different visual supports we can use to help our children both understand their day and learn to express themselves.

This evening workshop will be at the Maier Centre South location.

Date:	November 6, 2018
Time:	6:00pm – 8:00pm

Exploring Challenges with Toileting for Children with ASD

Toilet training can be challenging for many families, and there are additional factors to consider for children with ASD. This workshop aims to explore toilet training by discussing common challenges that parents might encounter and provides strategies to support with this complex routine.

This evening workshop will be at the Maier Centre South location.
